Not illustrated. 1849 Excerpt: .it is no less the duty of these persons to stand by the liberties of the people than to protect the prerogative of the Crown. Butwhatisourpresentconstitution ? We have an individual nominated to this Government professedly by the Sovereign but ostensibly and virtually by the Colonial Minister. Now it is within the range of possibility that some gentleman residing in this colony, --my friend Mr. Vankoughnet, for instance, might find it necessary to go to England, his professional ability and talent would bring him into notice, and he might become a member of the Government, be made Colonial Secretary, and Mr. Vankoughnet would in fact, J send us a Governor-General! (Hear, hear.) I ask you, if that was to be the case, should we be satisfied with it f Is it right that an individual exercising one-third of the power of this government should be appointed by the gentleman who temporarily occupies Downing-street! (Hear, hear!) Then with regard to the appointment of the Legislative Council.--When the gentlemen now in power came into office, they found that that council did not suit them, they feared that there was a majority of the members differing from them, and the consequence was, that immediate application was made to England, and blank writs of mandamus sent out here; they were sent to Lord Elgin, not knowing whether the parties would accept or not; they came for the purpose of forming a Legislative Council of the political party now in power....
